ABOUT THE FOUNDATION

The Baton Rouge Area Foundation is committed to improving the quality of life for people across South Louisiana. Three strategies for accomplishing our mission. One, provide philanthropic services that help our donors make resolute decisions about their charitable gifts to make a better world now, and leave a meaningful legacy. Two, advise nonprofits so our donors' gifts can produce higher results. Three, design and implement civic projects that aim to solve fundamental problems across South Louisiana.

STARTUP DATE: 1964

TOTAL ASSETS: $656 million (year-end 2017)

WHY WE CAN ACCOMPLISH GOOD..

- 1. FUND DONORS They open and invest in charitable accounts at the Foundation, and then make grants to nonprofits. The Foundation and our donors have granted more than $475 million in 54 years. A complete list of funds is in this annual report
- 2. MEMBERS Our members provide more than $650,000 annually to civic projects. Their resources have let us reclaim downtown Baton Rouge, start building The Water Campus, improve services for people with mental health issues and for children with developmental disabilities, and take on quality of life projects, such as saving the lakes and building out the Health District.
- 3. PARTNERS Local and state government, our donors and nonprofits are among our partners. Without them, our joint projects would come to a standstill, or not be launched at all. With them, we have remade the region for all the people who live here.

LETTER FROM THE CHAIR

William E. Balhoff

The Baton Rouge riverfront has been a place of plenty. Ten thousand years ago, hunter-gatherers were drawn to the river's banks by its bounty of food and resources. Later, Native Americans settled together here. Likewise, European colonists came to the river, and their struggling outpost grew to become the parish and region we call home today. By the mid-20th century, however, people here no longer clung so closely to their river. Hidden behind levees, the Mississippi seemed less a part of life, and residents wandered further and further away from it, opting for big suburban houses on cheap land, far removed from its fertile banks.

Last year, in a modest way, Baton Rouge began a return to the riverfront. In December, the Baton Rouge Area Foundation, with local and state government as partners, cut the ribbon on the Center for Coastal and Deltaic Studies.

The Center is part of the larger Water Campus project. But it stands on its own as a work of architecture like no other on the waterfront. Built inside the levees, the Center connects to the Old City Dock, where families now gather on lazy days to watch diminutive tugs maneuver their barges around great, oceangoing freighters.

Working inside the Center are scientists of The Water Institute of the Gulf, collaborating with the Coastal Protection and Restoration Authority and LSU's Center for River Studies. Together, they are tackling among the most challenging environmental issues of our time: how to adapt to fast-rising seas and crumbling coastlands. The world is washing away from under the feet of the three billion people who live at the water's edge, and the Center's scientists are pursuing solutions to adapt to this grave danger.

The Foundation and our development partner, Commercial Properties Realty Trust, chose the abandoned riverfront for its practical value and public good. With our Water Campus rising around it, we hope that other developers will return to the riverfront and to the Nicholson Corridor. Reviving neglected parts of town adds tax revenues without the cost of additional public infrastructure.

But, for us, it's about more than the economics. Restoring lost parts of the city and recalling people to them again is at the heart of an ambition to build communities that integrate residents of different economic backgrounds, removing social divides that have plagued us for so long.

EDUCATION

Basis and IDEA. Keep an eye on both school operators as they grow in East Baton Rouge Parish. They are among the best charter operators in the country, a claim backed by U.S. News and World Report, which ranks their schools among the best in the nation. In 2017, Basis and IDEA were recruited by New Schools for Baton Rouge, which got its start with funding from donors of the Baton Rouge Area Foundation.

MCKAY AUTOMOTIVE TECHNOLOGY CENTER

It's fitting that the McKay Automotive Technology Center is named after John W. McKay Jr. He was an educator in the East Baton Rouge School System for more than 30 years. He taught at Melrose East, just down the street from the new training center in Ardenale. His son, Matt McKay, is building a legacy of his own. McKay spent a decade working with the Baton Rouge Area Foundation and Louisiana Community and Technical College System to open the training center, the best in Louisiana. Ardenale, on Lobdell Avenue, welcomed a second tenant in 2018: a pioneering career high school operated by East Baton Rouge Public Schools. Ardenale began as a Foundation initiative after Hurricane Katrina. The East Baton Rouge Redevelopment Authority is now in charge of building it out.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE YEAR

AUTISM

Parents have an easy way to get help for their children who have a disability, such as autism. A Foundation project to improve services launched Exceptional Lives Louisiana, a website that lets parents and caregivers of children and young adults with disabilities find resources and guides that help them navigate to services. Tens of thousands of Louisiana parents have used the site.

THE HEALTH DISTRICT

The traffic on Essen Lane and Bluebonnet Boulevard is an indicator of unplanned growth. The Baton Rouge Health District is bringing order to the area, not only the traffic but also to make our region among the best for health care and living well. Created by the Baton Rouge Area Foundation, the Health District is overseen by top executives of health care operators. In 2017, it initiated a land plan to start creating a sense of place on Essen/Bluebonnet that will make the district distinct from its surroundings. Other projects: reducing use of antibiotics, sharing services to reduce costs, and a database to identify chronic disease and health care service gaps.

MENTAL HEALTH INITIATIVE

We can all agree that people who have a mental illness should not be in prison. To combat the problem, the Baton Rouge Area Foundation formed the Bridge Center for Hope. In 2017, the Center, a nonprofit overseen by an independent board, started a pre-trial release program with local justice authorities. People in the program are receiving treatment and returning to productive lives. The program is demonstrating that treatment is more humane—and less costly—than incarceration.

An aerial photograph of a wetland area. The landscape is a mosaic of vibrant green vegetation, likely marshes or rice fields, and dark, irregularly shaped water bodies. The water bodies vary in size and shape, some appearing as small ponds and others as larger, interconnected channels. The overall scene is a complex, textured pattern of green and dark blue/black.

THE WATER INSTITUTE OF THE GULF

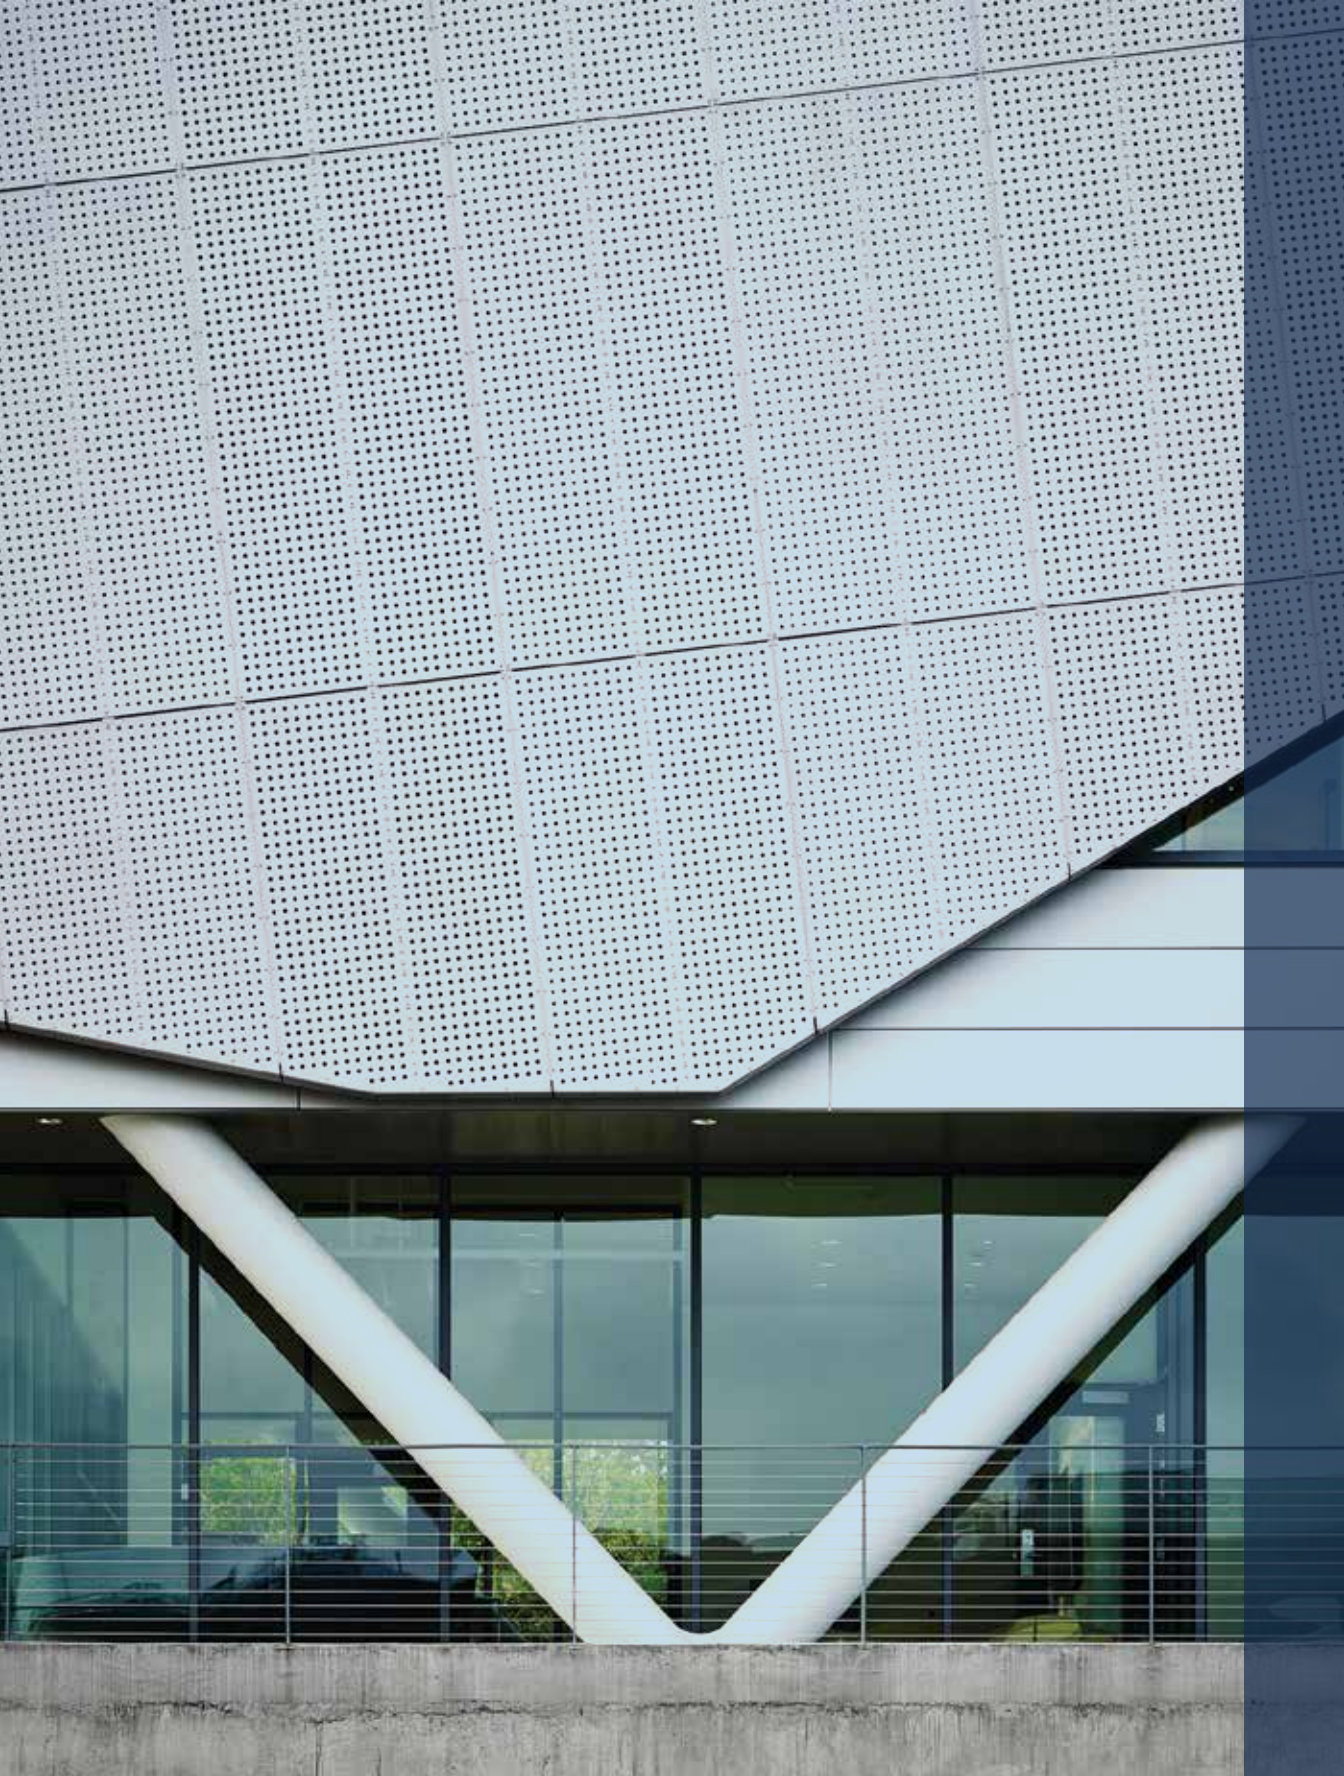

The Water Institute of the Gulf and Deltares, the Netherlands premier scientific institution for water management, began leveraging their applied research to compete in the growing global market for managing water resources. The Baton Rouge Area Foundation created the Institute, which is located on The Water Campus.

COMPANION ANIMAL ALLIANCE

Six years after it was launched by the Foundation, Companion Animal Alliance started building a $12.75 million animal shelter on the LSU Campus, thanks to our fund donors and Foundation staff support. Since its inception, CAA has saved 43,000 dogs and cats that would otherwise have been euthanized. That's a lot of tail wagging.

CHARITABLE FUNDS

The Foundation and our affiliates manage charitable accounts – like investment accounts for doing good – on behalf of fund donors and nonprofits. Assets in the funds are primarily managed by New York investment banks. Our investment committee oversees the funds, moderating the risk to ensure the funds grow steadily and are available for giving year after year. People who have charitable funds at the Foundation make grants to nonprofits.
